

Electrical Cages.

One of the benefits of the Metalmesh Sigma system is that in the Pregalvanised finish, we can guarantee the continuity across the whole of the installation, this lends itself to electrical applications where bonding is required for safety. The components are all attached by self drilling screws therefore continuity is guaranteed. In order to earth the installation all that is required is a loop spade connector and this is fitted under the head of one of the self drilling screws, located across the cage.
